Clark’s Creek Photovoice Project: Call for Photos

What is your Clarks Creek watershed story?

Do you like photography? Do you want to exhibit in a gallery how you see the watershed?

WSU Puyallup is looking for submissions for the Clarks Creek Watershed Photovoice website and photography exhibit February 2016.

We want to see how you see your watershed; how you interact with in and live within it. How do you connect with the water around you?

How to submit:

Submissions are open to high school students and those 18 and older residing in the Clarks Creek Watershed.

Attach up to two photos to: puy.photovoice@wsu.edu Include your name, the titles of the photos, and their filenames. Don’t forget to rename your photos. Name them 1 (or 2) _YourName_Call. That way we’ll never lose a photo.

For example:

Don’t forget to include your name on your photos; we can’t credit you if we don’t know who you are!

And only include up to two of your best photos!

We really want to be able to see how you see the watershed, which means we only have time to look at the first two photos.

Photos that are not attached to an email (please, do not embed them) will not be considered.

WSU reserves the right to install the accepted works in the manner deemed necessary for exhibition or security reasons. Printed Works that differ markedly from the submitted image will be disqualified. Accepted and exhibited artwork may be reproduced for promotional purposes.

Sending an entry constitutes an agreement by the artist to the conditions set forth above.

The names of all accepted artists, images of their work and images of the exhibition will be documented in education material and on the WSU, Washington Stormwater Center website.

To more information on how to participate, please contact:

Laurie Larson
WSU Puyallup Research Center
253-445-4593
laurie.larson@puyallup.wsu.edu

Copyright © 2015 WSU