

Municipal Stormwater Education & Outreach Blog May 2024

This is a once-a-month E&O blog for municipal stormwater permittees across the state of Washington. It is put out by the Washington Stormwater Center's Statewide E&O Coordinator and is designed to be brief, so it can be easily read. It contains one or two E&O topics, links to information, success stories, documents or training, etc. Thank you for your continued efforts to protect the waters of our state! By: Anne Melrose

Suggestions for MuniCon 2025 Education and Outreach Sessions

Greetings,

Welcome to spring! Nothing like a Washington winter to make you love the spring!

The MuniCon planning team is preparing a list of high priority topics for the call for abstracts for the E&O presentation/panel discussion track and the half day workshop during their conference, May 20 - 21, 2025.

The conference will be in Vancouver WA., on the Columbia River, a seemingly great place to talk about water. It will be in-person, with a virtual option. For more information see Municon 2025.

This is your chance to provide input. What education and outreach topic(s) would you like to learn more about? What learning opportunity would help motivate you to attend? What quick skill set do you need? What new challenges will the new municipal stormwater permit present that you would like help with?

These in-person events provide great learning and networking opportunities. Send your ideas to Anne Melrose at anne.melrose@wsu.edu by 6/7/2024 to help the planning team create the most useful experience for you.
